

Parents as Partners in Special Education: Collaboration and Parental Rights

WHO SHOULD ATTEND?

Parents, Caregivers and Educators of Students with Disabilities

DESCRIPTION

In special education, collaboration between families and educators is essential. This training offers parents, caregivers and educators an opportunity to learn about their rights in the special education process and how to be an effective partner in the education of children. Topics will include:

- an understanding of the parent's role as part of a collaborative team;
- effective communication strategies;
- steps to creating agreement;
- understanding procedural safeguards; and
- strategies for organizing information and preparing for IEP meetings.
